

Stay current with Read by QxMD

It is nearly impossible to keep up with the volume of medical literature published in your areas of interest and expertise without some help. Read by QxMD is part of the College Library's growing collection of apps that support evidence-based clinical practice, and it provides a single easy-to-use interface that allows you to stay current in your personal and professional areas of interest.

Created in Vancouver and designed by a physician, Read by QxMD is available for both iOS and Android. Download the app and create your own personalized medical journal. Select journal titles of interest or choose by preselected subject areas to create a customized feed of the latest publications.

Read by QxMD is integrated with the College Library's journal subscriptions, providing full-text access to articles from more than 2500 journal titles. Most articles are available in pdf format with a single tap. If your desired article is not from a journal to which the library subscribes, you will receive a message stating "Your library doesn't subscribe to this paper" and offering a "Request a copy" button. Select "Request a copy" and the library will source the article and send it to you via e-mail as soon as possible. Be sure to include your preferred contact information.

If you have further questions or require support for Read by QxMD, contact the College Library: e-mail medlib@cpsbc.ca or call 604 733-6671.

Powell River: Doctors practice here!

We are a rural community of 20,000 people on the Sunshine Coast of British Columbia, a 25-minute flight from Vancouver – known for its waterfront location, outdoor beauty, urban culture, and international music festivals. Supported by a 33 bed general hospital, the close-knit medical community consists of 26 general practitioners, 4 ER and anesthesia physicians, two NPs, and 7 specialists.

We are looking for permanent general practitioners and locums.
